

PET FOOD RECALL

Menu Foods Inc., based out of Statesville, Ontario, Canada is recalling all of its “cuts and gravy” style dog and cat food produced at its facility in Emporia, Kansas between December 3, 2006 and March 6, 2007.

Due to customer complaints received by Menu Foods and by testing conducted by the manufacturer, it has been reported that a small number of cats and dogs have developed kidney failure after eating the affected product.

The products are packaged in cans and pouches under numerous brand names and are marketed nationwide by many retailers including Wal-Mart, Stop & Shop and PetSmart. Dry pet foods are NOT included in the recall, nor are semi-moist or canned/pouched products that are not “in gravy.”

Menu Foods has identified the potentially contaminated products on the Internet at www.menufoods.com/recall. Consumers who have any of these products should immediately stop feeding them to their pets. Pets who have consumed the suspect feed and are showing signs of kidney failure (loss of appetite, lethargy and vomiting) should consult a veterinarian.

Menu Foods, Inc. has notified retailers by phone and mail and has arranged for the return of all recalled products. All recalled products have been removed from the shelves. Consumers with questions may contact Menu Foods at 1-866-895-2708, or you may call the U.S. Food and Drug Administration website at <http://www.fda.gov/opacom/backgrounders/complain.html>.

FDA CRITERIA FOR PET FOOD COMPLAINT FOLLOW UP/SAMPLE COLLECTION

1. Cat/Dog with kidney disease (renal failure) diagnosed by a veterinarian.
2. Animal died from renal failure.
3. Veterinary records are available.
4. Pet food implicated in the recall was consumed within the week prior to death.
5. Consumer has at least one unopened can/pouch with the same lot number as the lot consumed prior to death.
6. Contact FDA for further procedures.